'Extension' of school bonds considered

Plan would postpone the expiration of current school bonds -- raising $49 million for schools

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento's school district and an independent campaign committee are exploring a potential new school bond measure for this November's ballot. The measure -- still very tentative -- could create $49 million in new spending ability by "extending" two school bonds already in place.

The district was handed a defeat by voters when it last sought a new $59 million school bond last November.

"I proposed to the (campaign) committee that if we were going to look at a bond this November, then we were going to look at a continuation of our two existing bonds," Superintendent Steve Lawrence told the News-Ledger yesterday. "The economy is very soft right now."

The committee has conducted a telephone survey of some local residents to gauge their support for the new plan.

The "continuation" plan would not increase the amount of property tax that residents are paying for school bonds, but would keep property owners paying for a longer period, said Lawrence.

"The bond we went for last November was an entirely new bond, (with tax payments) which would $35 per $100,000 of assessed value," Lawrence explained. "The new proposal" would keep the current amount constant and would extend it out for a total term of 25 years. The average person lives in their house for about seven years, so they would never see a difference."

The school district is busy converting its elementary schools to a new kindergarten-through-eighth grade program -- in many cases, using "portable buildings" to save money, in the wake of last year's failure to pass a bond.

Will the district be in big trouble if the new bond doesn't pass?

"I would definitely say that is not true," answered Lawrence.

Instead, the new $49 million (or whatever the final bond amount is) would be distributed in a yet-undecided way to bring "parity" among the district's campuses.

"One of our goals is to have comparability among schools," he added. "Without this funding, it doesn't allow us to do that. One of our plans, for example, is for a new multipurpose gymnasium at Elkhorn Elementary. Without this funding, we won't be able to do that... it doesn't create parity."

Other options that could be funded with a new bond include "sunshades and structures like that -- things that would be nice to have" at the schools.

West Sacramento political consultant Mark Capitolo is behind the new survey. He saw his work to pass last year's "Measure S" fall short about five percent short of the needed 55 percent approval rate.

Why the failure?

"Low turnout," said Capitolo. "Not enough people voted. The low turnout, combined with a down trend in the housing market and gas prices has hurt us. The higher the turnout (this time), the better we'll do. That's why we're considering November -- we know the turnout will be higher, and will more accurately reflect the sentiments of the community."

Capitolo said he is aware that the new bond will have to win over voters suffering from "these times of an economic downturn in the housing market and exorbitant gasoline prices." November is expected to draw a large number of voters to the polls for the presidential election.

The proposed new bond has not been discussed by the school board yet.

THIS YEAR'S WINNERS

The winners of the city's "15 Days in May" contest were announced by the West Sacramento City Council on June 11. Afterwards, the winners and council members celebrated the news.

Pictured, left to right, are Robyn Flynn (Nonresidents, second prize); Andy Clausen (Residents Over 55, third); Erich Kloetzer (Residents 18-55, third); Alek Penkov (Residents Under 18, third); Adam Donovan (later disqualified); Elijah Dove (Residents Under 18, first; Image of Health, third); Mayor Christopher Cabaldon; Scott Schaffner (Image of Health, first); Liza Smirnova (Residents Under 18, second); Council Member Oscar Villegas; Jacqueline Peigare (Residents 18-55, first); Council Member Wes Beers; Charles Bates (Image of Health, second) with his four children in the foreground; Al Baker (Nonresidents, third); Betty Mitchell (Residents Over 55, first); Christina Harvey (Working in West Sacramento, second); Linnea Wong (Working in West Sacramento, first); Mayor Pro Tem Bill Kristoff; Lai Saetern (Residents 18-55, first) with daughter Lacy; Charlotte Dorsey (Residents Over 55, second); and Council Member Mark Johannessen. Unable to attend: Ben Pacificar (Nonresidents, first).

Tim Kwong (not pictured) earned third place in "Working in West Sacramento" after the original winner in the category, Adam Donovan, was disqualified this week. The previously-announced second- and third-place winners in the category were bumped up to first and second, respectively.

A city spokesperson said Donovan admitted that he had submitted another person's photograph in that category, and has returned the prize money. The photo, capturing the new CalSTRS building in West Sacramento, was one of several "winning" photos published in the News-Ledger last week.

$16.7 million to help develop 'Triangle' area

Plans to develop West Sacramento's "Triangle" area received a big boost this month.

The state has awarded $16.7 million in infrastructure construction funds to the city "to jumpstart office, hotel, retail and residential development" in the Triangle, reports city spokesman Art Schroeder.

The Triangle is located north of the U.S. 50 freeway along the Sacramento River. The 188-acre region is home to Raley Field, the Ironworks subdivision and former industrial properties served by rail lines.

The city may receive an additional $6.3 million if the state approves more bonds this year, added Schroeder.

"We've had this vision for the Triangle for over a decade, and now with these funds we can forge ahead with growth that is really good for the environment," said Mayor Christopher Cabaldon in a city press release.

Relocation of RMC/Cemex, a rail-served cement plant, to the port in 2005, and of a Weyerhaeuser Recycling Facility to Cebrian Way this year have cleared the way for construction of new roads, sewers, water lines, off-ramp improvements and riverfront park amenities in the master-planned Triangle area, said Schroeder.

The new funds will be "leveraged" with city and private investment to create the needed infrastructure for the "vital new transit-oriented business/residential district" planned for the Triangle," he added.

City approves 'master' agreement with state for new California Indian Heritage Center

West Sacramento's city council voted 4-0 last Wednesday to pursue an agreement giving 43 acres of city riverfront to California State Parks for use as a California Indian Heritage Center. Both sides plan to address concerns with traffic, parking and security in the north-area development before an agreement is finalized in 2010.

The property is located across from the mouth of the American River on the Sacramento River and near the "Rivers" development of West Sacramento.

"The West Sacramento site, at the confluence of two major rivers, is a place of significance to California Indian people," said Larry Myers, chairman of the California Indian Heritage Task Force and Foundation. "The beautiful and distinctive location along the river will honor our heritage by placing the (California Indian Heritage Center) within California's state capital region. We are honored to partner with the City of West Sacramento, California State Parks and the California Indian community on this exciting opportunity to create a home befitting the important contribution of California Indian culture to our state."

Plans for the site include a library, archives, artifacts, resident artist's space, offices, classrooms, a café, museum, amphitheater, indigenous gardens, trails and parking.

The center will also make use of parking at "Northgate" in the American River Parkway across the river.

Environmental impacts of channel deepening project

A public "scoping meeting" on a planned project to deepen the ship canal connected to West Sacramento's port is scheduled for 5-7 p.m. on June 30 at city hall. The meeting will be hosted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Up for public comment is a set of documents related to the environmental impact studies for the project.

'Always try real hard to be nice, regardless'

Editor's note: Daryl is on vacation this week back in the Midwest. Below is one of his favorite columns from the past:

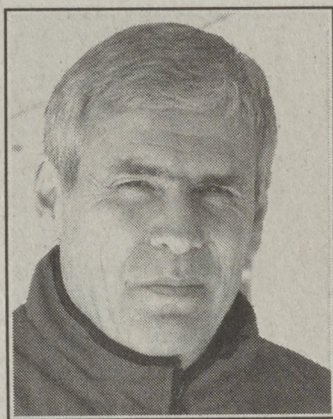

I recently had to go to a doctor's appointment in downtown Sacramento and as I reluctantly sat down in the crowded waiting room to nervously await my turn to be poked and prodded, a razor-thin, tired-looking black lady who had to be in her mid-to-late 70s and who was supporting herself with the aid of a cane shuffled over and sat down next to me. She had just finished her examination and a nurse called to her, "Ms. Gordon, your transportation back home should be here any minute."

"Thank you," she said kindly to the nurse. "You're all done, huh?" I asked her, wishing that I, too, had finished with my appointment. "Yes," she answered with a warm smile. "Is everything okay?"

"She nodded her head and said, 'I thought maybe there might be a little something wrong with my heart, but the doctor said it was probably just gas. I do have diabetes, though, and I sure hope that little bus gets here soon so I can go home and get something to eat.'"

Much to my surprise, the nurse suddenly called out my name and motioned that it was already my turn to go back to the examination rooms. As I stood up, my thoughts quickly

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

turned to the fun and games awaiting me, and away from my conversation with the nice elderly lady.

A good hour later, I finally escaped from the clutches of my doctor and was making my way out of the office when I noticed that the lady I had been talking to earlier was still sitting in her chair.

"Hasn't your bus got here yet?" I asked her. She sadly shook her head 'no'.

"Where do you live?" I asked.

"Over the bridge — in West Sacramento."

"Really?" I said. "Well, so do I, and you're more than welcome to ride along with me if you'd like."

With a twinkle in her eye, she said, "I guess that would be okay — if you don't think your wife will mind."

Hattie Mary Shorter Gordon turned out to be 78-years old, and she was still full of life and sharp as a tack. She had been born in a little town called Eugula, Alabama (near Montgomery) during the first World War and later moved to West Virginia, where her father worked in the coal mines. "People were different back then," she explained to me. "They visited more and were so much nicer to each other. They helped one another. Nowadays, people just aren't as friendly as they used to be."

All was not easy, however, for a young black girl growing up in the Deep South back in the 1920s and 1930s. "But things have gotten a lot better over the years," she explained. "Back when I was young, if you took a package or something over to a white person's house, you always had to go to the back door. If you forgot and went to the front door, you were liable to get hit — and by people you had known all your life. I remember when I was about 12, my daddy sat me down and told me that although it wasn't right, colored people were treated differently than white people, and that there were things I shouldn't do and places I shouldn't go because I might get hurt. So, when I was young, I mostly just visited friends and went to church. I've always loved going to church and it's been a very important part of my life. People in my family have been deacons, ministers, and missionaries, and my mother — God rest her soul — had the most beautiful voice in the choir."

I asked Hattie why she had moved to California. "My father was out here working a new job on the railroad and he got pretty lonesome so he sent for all of us. It wasn't too long after that that I was supposed to get married to this one man, but I decided to marry this other one instead. I was 17 when I got married, but he turned out to be one of those born-liars, so I had to divorce him."

"Did you marry again after that?"

"Yes, I did, and I was engaged a few times in-between, too. I've got three children and seven grandchildren, and two of them grandchildren I raised all by myself. But after awhile my second husband got to be quite a rascal, too, so out the door he went. We sure had some good fights, though. He'd say, 'Hattie, you're crazy!', and I'd say, 'No, I'm the one with the good sense!'" She laughed long and hard and then suddenly asked me what month I was born in.

"August," I answered.

"Which day in August?" she asked with interest.

"The 18th."

She rolled her bright, cheerful eyes, smiled even wider and said, "Then that makes you one of those Leos, just like my second husband. Now Leos are a lot of fun to talk to and be around and everything, but to tell you the truth, a woman sure doesn't want to marry one of them!"

As I said goodbye to Hattie, I asked her if there was any secret to growing old with such grace and good humor, as she obviously has.

"Oh, not really," she replied. "I've been a very lucky lady. The Lord has blessed me with a wonderful life. I think the most important thing, though, is to always try real hard to be friendly and nice — regardless."

The West Sacramento Fire Department reports a busy week ending last Wednesday. The week's events included:

Humboldt (Paradise)

Strike Team Fire: On June 11

four WSFD personnel

(Division Chief Jim Medich as

Command Chief, Captain

John Muir, Engineer Daniel

Stefani and Firefighter Ben

Trimble) responded to the

"Humboldt Fire" in Butte

County east of Chico in the Paradise area. This fire was driven by a strong north wind and eventually burned over

23,000 acres. In addition, 74 residences were destroyed and 20 were damaged. West

Sacramento's firefighters responded as part of a Yolo

County Strike Team which included units from Davis,

Woodland, Willow Oak, and

the Rumsey Rancheria departments. Crews returned on Monday, June 16th at 2:00 p.m. "exhausted and with three cases of poison oak."

Evacuation Drill: On

Friday June 13, Engine 43

participated in an evacuation drill with Raley's

Headquarters office at 500

West Capitol Avenue. All 500

employees were evacuated safely and in a timely manner, said the fire department.

Water Rescue Drill: Fire

crews participated in a training session with city

Parks & Recreation

lifeguards. Water rescue drills were performed with new lifeguards at the River

City High School pool to prepare them for the upcoming swim season.

Industrial Accidents: On the afternoon of June 9,

Engine 43 and Truck 45 were dispatched for an industrial accident at the Post Office on Industrial Blvd, where an employee's arm was caught in a machine. Firefighters successfully removed the employee's arm from the machine, and the employee was transported to the hospital.

On the same afternoon,

Engine 45 was dispatched for an industrial accident on Ramco, where an employee had wedged his foot between the forklift and the storage rack. Engine 45 stabilized the employee, and provided medical attention to the severely severed toes and foot.

With the help of AMR ambulance personnel, the employee was transported to

UC Davis Medical Center.

Single Vehicle Rollover:

On June 11 at 11:36 a.m., a single vehicle roll-over

occurred on Southport

Parkway. Engine 45, Truck

45, and 4101 responded.

Upon arrival, an upside down vehicle was found sitting in the westbound lanes. The vehicle contained a trapped female who was seven months pregnant. After 5-10 minutes of extrication, the roof was removed and the patient was extricated from the vehicle.

The patient was stabilized and transported to UC Davis.

Mobile Home Fire: On

June 13, at about 7:36 a.m., a structure fire was reported at the 600-block of West

Capitol Avenue. Engine 41,

Engine 43, Engine 44, Engine

45, Truck 45, and 4101 were dispatched. They initiated an "aggressive" fire attack and the mobile home fire was brought under control quickly. Although the home

took extensive damage, salvage operations saved a great deal of personal property, reports the fire department. A female occupant safely escaped the fire and was stabilized by WSFD, and transported to the hospital for symptoms of anxiety.

Tank Farm Drill: On June

17-18, the West Sacramento

Fire Department participated in a Regional Tank Farm drill

at the Sacramento

International Airport. The

drill simulated a 90-foot combustible storage tank fully involved in fire. Other local participants included

Sacramento Metro, Sac City,

Woodland, and the International Airport fire departments. Valero Fire Department, a member of the

Petrochemical Mutual Aid

Organization (PMOA) from the Bay Area, provided a foam apparatus each day.

Boat Ramp Boating

Accident/Injury: On June

17 at 5:16 p.m. Engine 44,

Truck 45, Boat 41, and Duty

4101 responded to the Broderick boat ramp for a reported victim on the beach

just north of the boat ramp.

The victim had been injured

by a boat propeller. Engine

44 made access to the patient on land along the river. The patient was found to have severe life threatening injuries to her entire left leg.

Boat 41 launched with a paramedic on board from the boat ramp. Patient was extricated from the beach and Boat 41 transported the patient back to the boat ramp.

The patient was transported with lights and siren to the University Medical Center

(UC Davis) with two firefighters assisting with advanced life support.

The latest report indicated that the 21-year old female is expected to survive, but would probably have her left leg amputated.

SPORTS

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

On Thursday night, live (4 p.m.-PST- ESPN) from Madison Square Garden in New York City, the Sacramento Kings will be selecting three players in the first 43 picks of the NBA draft. Of course, that's if the Kings don't make a trade but Sacramento will have the 12th overall pick in the draft.

Kings general manager Geoff Petrie, will be shopping around for another point guard with Beno Udrih's contract in limbo and possibly a forward who can play a little defense while scoring tons of points.

The trade rumors are all around the NBA with Ron Artest's name being tossed around as trade bait. Petrie needs to unload Kenny Thomas's huge contract and release a couple of older players like Abdur-Rahim and Thomas who are taking up space on the bench.

The Kings are loaded at the forward position with Artest, Garcia and Salmons but actually have five players who can play center/forward that include Mikki Moore, Brad Miller, Spencer Hawes, Lorenzen Wright and Sheldon Williams. These guys are excellent trade bait too.

Maybe the Kings can trade Artest and package Thomas in the deal to bring troubled Carmelo Anthony to Sacramento or maybe make deal to move up in the draft. The good news for Kings Fans is that center Joe Klein is not available in the draft!

Speaking of great players, the U.S. Olympic basketball team was announced on Monday with hopes of winning the Gold Medal in Beijing, China this August. Of course the team includes Kobe Bryant and LeBron James.

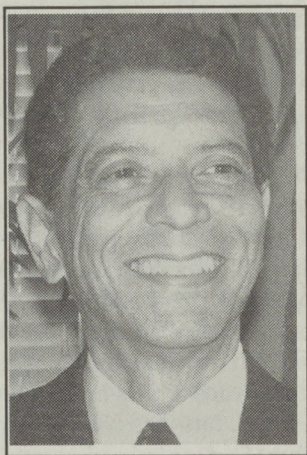

The "Dream Team" will be coached by Duke's Mike Krzyzewski and the roster will include: Carmelo Anthony, Carlos Boozer, Chris Bosh, Dwight Howard, Jason Kidd, Chris Paul, Tayshaun Prince, Michael Redd, Dwayne Wade and Deron Williams.

Diamond Notes

The Giants (32-44) are sliding closer to the bottom of the West standings with a slim half game lead over the Rockies and Padres. The G-Men blew a seven-run lead in KC on Sunday to crawl out the Missouri with another loss. Relievers Tyler Walker and Brian Wilson have been effective but the rest of the Giants bullpen has been totally abused.

San Francisco lost two of three games to the last place Royals and fell to 2-10 in interleague play. The Giants will continue their interleague play with a 3-game series in Cleveland and then head back to the Bay Area for another weekend series against their arch rival Oakland A's. The A's own the G-Men this year but there is some hope for Giants fans with Barry Zito scheduled to pitch in Cleveland on Wednesday.

Across the Bay, the Oakland A's (41-34) trail the Angels by four games in the West but the good news is pitcher Justin Duchscherer, who won his fourth consecutive game and leads the A.L. with a 1.99 ERA, is by far the best pitcher in the league this month. Duchscherer was the PCL Pitcher of the Year with the River Cats in 2003.

By Richard Novoa

The A's will warm-up the Oakland Coliseum during the week with a three-game series against Philly in preparation of their weekend series with the G-Men. Ex-River Cats catcher Kurt Suzuki enjoyed his finest day in the Major's hitting a two-run homer and a game winning double to beat Florida, matching his career high with 5 RBI's.

The River Cats (46-32) beat Salt Lake City (47-30) on Sunday but lost on Monday night putting the Bees a couple games up on the Gatos for the leagues best record. The Cats made another roster change by placing Travis Buck on the DL and calling up pitcher Graham Godfrey from Stockton.

The River Cats will return to the friendly confines of Raley Field to host the Tucson Sidewinders in a long weekend series starting on Thursday night followed by a four-game series against Portland. The Gatos will play in Fresno during the 4th of July Holiday but you can catch the fireworks show on Saturday, June 28th.

Korner Kicks

The USA's world cup team took it easy on Barbados beating them 1-0 last Sunday at the beautiful vacation island in the Caribbean Ocean while Mexico snapped out of their scoring nightmare with a 7-0 victory over Belize in Monterrey, Mexico. Both teams move on in the 2010 World Cup Qualifiers.

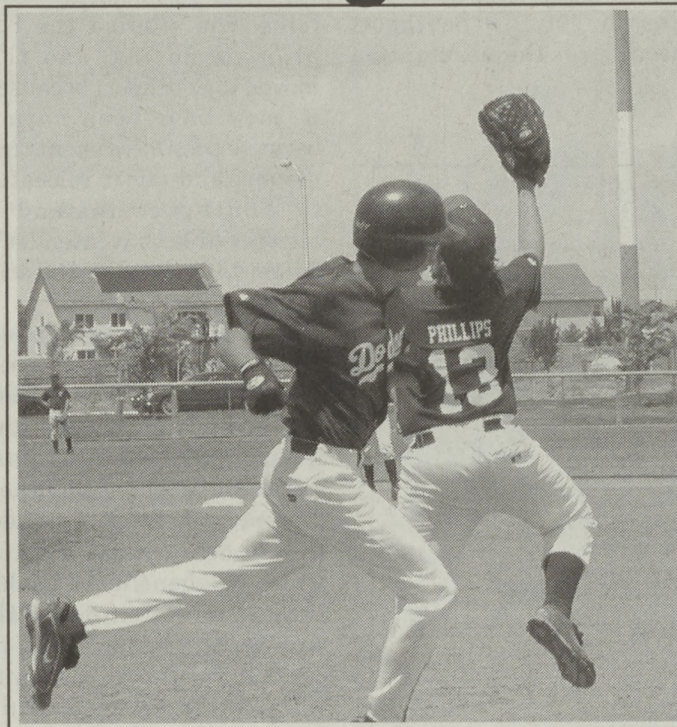

The U.S. will now prepare for their first match of the Semifinal Round, which will be on the road against Guatemala on Aug. 20.

Overall, the U.S. will play a total of six games in the round-robin Semifinal Round, facing all three opponents in the four-team group home and away series. The top two teams will advance to the Final Round of Qualifying that will be played in 2009.

On a local note, former Elk Grove High School standout, Stephanie Cox, earned a spot on the U.S. Olympic women's soccer team. Cox, formerly know as Stephanie Lopez, was one of 18 players named to the team by new coach Pia Sundhage.

Enjoy your day -- see ya next week!

The rest of the Major and Junior Division #6 T.O.C. games will be hosted by Washington Little League and played at Bryte Park this week.

The West Sacramento Dolphins lost by 5 points to the Fair Oaks Dolphins with a final score of 417 to 412. For the second time this season, the Dolphins' 200-yard freestyle relay team record was broken by Brittany Rojo, Rebecca McNeil, Alyssa Ringor and Sarah Garlinger. Brittany Rojo broke two more team records and yet another league record. The WS Dolphins brought it on although they were outnumbered by 50 swimmers at this event. The WS Dolphins put on an impressive show and many realized their personal best times. They'll compete next at the Northern California Swim League, Eureka Conference Championships, which will be held at the University of CA at Davis Aquatics Center on July 26 and 27. West Sacramento parents with children age 4-18 may want to start preparing their kids (i.e. swim lessons) so they will be ready to join the Dolphins next spring. The team will be swimming at the new West Sacramento High School pool.

consultant are now saying that the SFP cannot be implemented. This is indicated, minimally, by the project's 260% increase in residential units.

City officials have agreed with them by approving Yarbrough (city planning consultants have also agreed as indicated by their recommending Yarbrough for approval).

Therefore, if approval is finalized the City of West Sacramento should be reimbursed, with interest, for the costs the city paid for the creation of the SFP.

If the SFP was not able to be implemented, what did the city pay for? If the SFP was going to be considered as just a "bright idea" and not be implemented, then the city could as easily have worked with architectural and/or planning students from a state university and paid no fees whatsoever. The students would have gladly done the "consulting" as part of a design course project.

Also, it could be argued that folks who stayed in Southport based upon the assumption that the SFP would be implemented may have been harmed. They may have been harmed because they lost out on a peak market time to sell their homes and move to another area where the city intended to follow its General and Specific Plans.

It could also be argued that folks who studied the SFP prior to moving, and then moved to Southport because of it, may have been harmed because they have spent time, money, and effort relocating to Southport instead of another area that intended to follow its General and Specific Plans.

I believe that the city council should keep its covenant with the citizens of West Sacramento and do all within its power to maintain and implement the Southport Framework Plan. I believe this to be a course of action which will benefit the health, safety, and welfare of the community, the city, its current and future residents.

I, therefore, respectfully request that the city council deny approval of the Yarbrough project as designed.

JUDE LEE
West Sacramento

(June 11) suggests that Mariko Yamada won the race for the Democratic candidate for the 8th Assembly because she did more door-to-door campaigning than her opponent Christopher Cabaldon. I believe that there is another reason for Cabaldon's loss. Voters may be tired of "the old time campaign tactics" used by Cabaldon and other politicians.

Cabaldon received tens of thousands of dollars from developers, but never recused himself from discussions and votes on their projects. He claimed that their money did not influence his votes. Acceptance of this money may be legal, but was his behavior ethical?

Cabaldon accepted hundreds of thousands of dollars for his campaign from a political arm of EdVoice (his immediate former employer), but claimed that he did not influence these donations and the political advertisements that supported his candidacy. He may be truthful about his lack of influence and it may have been legal for him to accept this money, but was his behavior ethical?

Cabaldon paid for over 700 plus memberships in the West Sacramento Democratic Club. It has been said that payment of these memberships was done to increase public participation in local politics. Another interpretation was that Cabaldon paid for these memberships to increase his delegate count at the State Democratic Convention. These membership payments may be legal, but were they ethical?

Cabaldon gave away five hundred free tickets to a River Cat's game. He justified "this give away" as a means for people to enjoy a game at Raley Field (because he was proud of it) and not as an attempt to purchase votes. This "give away" may have been legal, but was it moral and ethical.

Some may say that I am picking on Christopher Cabaldon unfairly. These activities are nothing more than political strategies used by others seeking election. These critics may be right. But maybe, just maybe, the voters are tired of "politics as usual". Cabaldon may have won West Sacramento in the Assembly race (by a narrow margin) but was it because he is popular or because the voters wanted him OUT of West Sacramento and are tired of him representing the "REGION" and tired of HIS "politics as usual"?

DON'T BREATHE?
Smoky, unhealthy air likely to continue, say air quality officials

The Yolo-Solano Air Quality Management District in consultation with Yolo County Health Officer Bette Hinton, M.D., and Solano County Public Health Officer Ron Chapman, M.D. is advising residents to take precautions and avoid outdoor activities due to the smoke in the region caused by fires.

They advise:

- Everyone should avoid outdoor activities if you can see or smell smoke, even if you are healthy.
- Children, the elderly and people with respiratory or heart conditions should be particularly careful to avoid exposure.
- Stay indoors with doors and windows closed as much as possible.
- Asthmatics should follow their asthma management plan.
- Contact your doctor if you have symptoms of cough, shortness of breath, or other symptoms you believe to be caused by smoke.
- Those with heart disease should especially limit their smoke exposure since particulate matter (PM)* can cause heart attacks.

While all persons may experience varying degrees of symptoms, the more sensitive individuals are at greatest risk to experience more aggravated symptoms which may include, but are not limited to coughing, scratchy throat, watery and itchy eyes and difficulty breathing.

Hundreds of fires continue to burn in Northern and Central California and it is unlikely conditions will improve this week.

For more information, contact the Yolo-Solano AQMD at (530) 757-3650 or (800) 287-3650.

Places To Remember

(NAPS)—When you think of places that leave a lasting impression, three that top the list are the majestic National Museum of the American Indian in Washington, D.C., with its warm exterior of honey-colored limestone; the new Dallas Cowboys stadium in Arlington, Texas, shaped like a giant silver football; and the U.S. Bank Tower in Los Angeles, California, reaching more than 1,000 feet into the sky and topped by a spectacular glass crown.

The National Museum of the American Indian in Washington, D.C. is built with honey-colored limestone.

Each of these monumental projects is changing the face of America and leaving a lasting impression. Whether it is new industrial or commercial construction, thousands of projects such as these are tackled every year by the nearly 25,000 members of Associated Builders and Contractors (ABC).

While ABC member companies are proud of their achievements around the world, you can find them working in your community building churches, schools, fire stations and retail stores—the list is endless.

OPINION

NEWS-LEDGER EDITORIAL:

Under color of authority

The News-Ledger recently ran across a piece of California law that says:

"The people of this state do not yield their sovereignty to the agencies which serve them. The people, in delegating authority, do not give their public servants the right to decide what is good for the people to know and what is not good for them to know. The people insist that they may retain control over the instruments that they have created."

That language is part of the California Public Records Act. It reflects the same spirit that gave birth to the United States Constitution. It reflects a belief that our government exists to serve us, and not the other way around. It says that we insist on "transparency" in our government.

We Americans have even created a three-branch system of government, with each branch serving as a "check and balance" to the other two.

It's true that sometimes we Americans forget why we have checks and balances, and we sometimes forget to keep a sharp eye on our public servants. Sometimes we think "our" people are incapable of doing the kind of evil we deplore so much when some other country does it. We fall into the trap of trusting our leaders too much, and of failing to watch them and failing to hold them accountable. Inevitably, when we do this, we find out later that this unchecked power has gone to somebody's head. We find out – and we're always shocked when we do – that this power unchecked has been abused.

Last week, we saw a small but serious abuse of power here in Yolo County.

A Yolo County sheriff's deputy was murdered. His suspected killer was quickly captured. At the suspect's arraignment – an environment controlled by the fallen deputy's peers – something went wrong.

The arraignment was, by law, open and public. The court commissioner, acting as judge, had ordered that entry to the public proceedings be on a "first-come, first-serve" basis, reports an investigation later ordered by Presiding Judge David Rosenberg. But that plan, as controlled by the deputies and by private security guards following deputies' orders, broke down. Sheriff's deputies granted themselves special access to the hearing, entering through a side entrance and taking many of the available seats in the courtroom. They kept the front door locked to members of the media and public who were waiting in line. They escorted members of the victim's family into the courtroom, while denying entrance to members of the suspect's family.

At one point, the Commissioner was asked to allow the suspect's wife, mother and sister into the courtroom. The Commissioner, in turn, asked the Sheriff's Security Officer if this was possible.

"We will make arrangements to have room for them at the next hearing," was the reply, according to the court investigation.

In a court system in which the accused is presumed innocent until proven guilty, and in which courts are (barring some exceptional circumstance) open to the public, the audience in this particular hearing was "stacked" against the suspect by the actions, willful or not, of the sheriff's deputies. The public's "right to know" was also abridged, because reporters and other citizens were unfairly kept away from the public proceedings. Judge Rosenberg was right to take this seriously.

More worrisome is the response of Sheriff Ed Prieto.

Media reports say the sheriff has no plans to take disciplinary actions for those in his department who may have intentionally put themselves above the law and above the rules of the court. (Speaking through a department spokesperson, Prieto yesterday declined to speak with the News-Ledger. The spokesperson also declined to comment.)

Few would dispute that the killer of Deputy Jose "Tony" Diaz should be held accountable for his actions.

But what about our law enforcement personnel, to whom we give guns and badges to uphold the law – our law? The same ones who take an oath to uphold our laws? Shouldn't they be held accountable for their actions as well? What message does the sheriff send his deputies if he allows them to step over the law, and over the rules of our courts, without consequence?

If the sheriff doesn't hold his officers accountable, what happens the next time one of his deputies finds one of our laws to be inconvenient? And who will be at fault?

Letters to the Editor

'Thelma Needham Library'

I am writing to let you know that I disagree with your editorial to have the new library continue to be named after Arthur F. Turner. Yes, he did donate the land and all that you stated in the News-Ledger of 11 June, but I wish you would have taken into consideration the name of Thelma Needham. She was the librarian when the library was located on 15th Street by the original Willie's Market and she instilled a love of reading in many, many old time West Sac kids that continues to this day. I remember riding my bike down to the old library with the creaking wood floors and the little tables and chairs where we used to read while sitting in the cool and dusty building. I also remember Mrs. Needham always being there to find books for us and also putting books on hold that she thought we might like to read when we returned. She took the time to find out what our interests were and then found books for us that we always ended up reading with great pleasure.

Mrs. Needham was a lovely lady and we all loved her for what she did for us. Although Arthur F. Turner is a good name for the new library, I think Thelma Needham is an even better one. Thank you for allowing me to write my opinion to you.

Questions for Superintendent Lawrence

According to Superintendent Lawrence, Riverbank School (formerly Golden State Middle School) will have elementary students 3-8, and Elkhorn Village will have K-7. Superintendent Lawrence indicates that research found that allowing a child to attend the same neighborhood school through 8th grade makes for a good relationship between school, child, and parent, and that a better student is less likely to fall through the cracks at the critical ages of 11-14.

Please tell us what happens to the child who starts the 3rd grade at Golden State/Riverbank? Where does he/she attend K, 1st and 2nd grades? Why should these children be removed from their so-called comfort zone of their formative years in school and be sent off to another school? How and who decides where children will have to move? Those first years are critical to having a good foundation in reading, math, geography, science, etc. Please, Dr. Lawrence, don't just half-inform the public of your plans.

We also will have some 8th graders at Elkhorn who will be moved as the school will only go from K-7. Will their class be scattered hither and yon to various K-8 schools, losing all the camaraderie and comfort of their class and the environment you recommended? Mr. Lawrence, you have some large holes out there and I think you owe the public some answers.

And, at the same time, there are surveys being conducted regarding the status, confidence, knowledge of, and many more items about the school district, suggesting there will be another $40 million bond coming on the ballot in November. I thought some of the statements/comments/questions in the survey were right out of a fantasyland way of thinking. How about some real down-to-earth answers for us?

CRITIC'S CORNER

By D.N.A. Smith

"Kung-Fu Panda"

Running time: 88 minutes
MPAA rating: PG

"Kung-Fu Panda," the latest computer-animated feature from DreamWorks, is half of a good movie.

The film stars Jack Black as Po, a chubby panda who dreams of being a great kung-fu hero. One day, he gets his wish when he accidentally drops in on the ceremony choosing the Dragon Warrior, the chosen one whose destiny it is to fight the evil Tai Lung, the greatest kung-fu master ever.

Reluctantly aided by Yoda-looking Master Shifu (Dustin Hoffman) and the Furious Five (Angelina Jolie, Seth Rogen, Lucy Liu, Jackie Chan and David Cross), Po begins his last-minute training before Tai Lung arrives at their little village in the Valley of Peace.

Sure, the kids might enjoy it. It's a zippy 88 minutes long, there are some pretty fun fight sequences, the art direction is very good and some of the sight gags are funny.

But, grownups might find themselves bored by the hackneyed plot, groan-inducing dialogue and a ridiculous moral to the story that some might find annoying. The idea that all a person needs, regardless of shortcomings and a lack of qualifications, is self-esteem and he or she can do anything is absurd.

I mean, here's a fat, out-of-shape, undisciplined panda who, through the magic of self-esteem, is able to defeat the greatest kung-fu master of all time, while five other kung-fu masters who have trained really, really hard their entire lives get the stuffing kicked out of them. Let me tell you, as someone who is also fat, out of shape and undisciplined, the world doesn't work that way. If it did, I'd be playing point guard for the Lakers.

Ah, well. Not that any of that matters. The kids in the matinee I attended were having a great time, so I'm thinking your kids will too.

Q. I've been reading that many "90210" alumni want to be involved in the CW's "90210." The main question on my mind is, will Luke Perry return to his old ZIP code? — Julia G., Austin, Texas

A. While interviewing Luke — who was promoting his new Hallmark Channel movie, "A Gun-fighter's Pledge," which debuts Saturday, July 5 — I had to slip in a couple of "90210" questions. I asked him if he would be reprising his role as the brooding Dylan McKay on the CW's new incarnation of the show, and this was his reply: "I have no comment on that. But, I do wish everyone involved the best of luck with it." Hopefully this means he is involved, but he has to keep it all a secret. But officially, it's "No comment."

Q. I read in the Sunday paper that Glenn Miller is buried in Arlington Cemetery. I've read many, many times that his body (or plane) was never recovered in the English Channel. — Margaret H.

A. On Dec. 15, 1944, Glenn, the famed Swing Era musician and bandleader, was flying from the United Kingdom to France to play for soldiers who recently had liberated Paris. His plane disappeared in bad weather over the English Channel, and his remains and the wreckage of the plane were never found.

As a major with the U.S. Army, Glenn was eligible for a memorial headstone in Arlington National Cemetery as a servicemember who died on active duty and whose remains were not recoverable. At his daughter's request, a stone was placed in Memorial Section H, Number 464-A in April 1992.

Q. Whatever happened to country singer Jessica Andrews? She had a song out back in 2001 about Rosemary's granddaughter. It is special to me because my name is Rosemary, and my granddaughter and I danced to it at her wedding. — Rosemary W., Burlington, Wis.

A. Jessica's most recent album, "Ain't That Life," was never released due to Dream Works Records' closure, and she has not recorded since. She also co-wrote a song called "About Life" for Julianne Hough's debut CD, which was released earlier this summer. Jessica, 24, tours occasionally, and performed several shows at Dollywood in her native Tennessee just a few weeks ago.

Q. As a longtime fan of "Crossing Jordan," I wonder if the series will be restarted now that series star Jill Hennessy has given birth — or was that just a rumor? — Charles L., via e-mail

A. It would appear that is just a rumor (although stranger things have happened, just ask the folks at "Family Guy"). Most of the actors involved have moved on to other projects, including a recording career for Jill.

Only 15 minutes of grilling time! The trick: Steam the ribs for an hour in the oven up to 2 days before barbecuing.

COOK: 15 minutes
TOTAL: 1 hour, 15 minutes
MAKES: 6 servings

- 4 teaspoons (grated) fresh ginger, peeled

Inheritance

By Natalie Danford
(St. Martin's Press, $13.95)

Reviewed by Katy Olson

A mysterious deed to a long-abandoned Italian house lies among Luigi Bonnochio's remaining possessions, a secret that survives the man who kept it safe for so many years. Natalie Danford's novel "Inheritance" unravels the mystery of how this dusty paper and the home it represents haunt Luigi and his daughter in the years following the heartbreak and turmoil of World War II.

As a boy living in Urbino, a small Italian town, during WWII, Luigi falls in love with a Jewish girl and spends time with her family at their picturesque estate. But as the war escalates, her family fears for its safety and goes into hiding. Once they lose the right to own property, Luigi agrees to hold the deed to the family's beloved home in his name until the war ends. But soon, amid great scandal and rumors, Luigi leaves Urbino and his love behind for a new life in America.

Decades later, after Luigi's death, his daughter Olivia finds the deed and travels to Italy to sift truth from rumor and discover the house and its stories. Olivia realizes that Luigi's dream of owning his own house and starting a family in America both sustained and tortured him, a dream that served as a constant reminder of the deed and the lost love he never claimed. Yet the mystery surrounding his departure from Urbino isn't fully untangled until Olivia reconciles the lies she's heard with the redeeming truth her father had kept from her.

Equal parts thriller, romance and mystery, "Inheritance" travels between Italy and New York, between the war years and the 1990s, and between the perspectives of Luigi and Olivia with elegance and ease. In scarcely 200 pages, Danford's vibrant prose renders a clear and intriguing portrait of a man torn by his loyalties and his dreams.

Can you recall an "eating scene" from a famous movie or Broadway show that you wish you could have starred in?

"Two eating scenes which stand out in my mind are the scene in 'Big Night' where Stanley Tucci is making an omelet for Tony Shalhoub in the restaurant they own together. He put olive oil in the pan to make the omelet, and I was riveted by how he was 'crafting' this meal. Another scene was in the Lanford Wilson play 'Burn This,' with John Malkovich and Joan Allen. Malkovich spends an entire scene making tea. The process was so detailed and precise. It was like watching a master create a work of art."

When you crave a snack in the middle of the night, is it sweet or salty?

"I definitely crave salty foods. Potato chips are my favorite. The real thing, not baked. I also love tortilla chips and pretzels. It takes almost the entire next day to de-bloat!"

Nancy Travis

She tries to keep her TV family together and functional, and fortunately for the millions of viewers of the TBS hit comedy "The Bill Engvall Show," Nancy Travis does it with humor and grace. She made her feature-film debut in "Three Men and a Little Lady" and "So I Married an Axe Murderer." On the small screen, Travis starred in "Becker" with Ted Danson, "Almost Perfect" and recently appeared in the television movie "The Party Never Stops: Diary of a Binge Drinker," for which she was nominated for a PRISM Award. Travis' stage credits include "Boy Gets Girl" for director Randall Arney, and the classic "Three Sisters." She is a founding member of the off-Broadway theater company Naked Angels. Travis resides in Los Angeles with her husband and two children. For more info: www.tbs.com

On the show you're a wife who simply has to try hard to keep the family together and functional. In real life, is your kitchen a refuge of calmness, or does it get crazy around mealtime?

"Let me start by saying I love to cook. Whether I have any skill in that area is debatable. I tend to overextend myself: making guacamole from scratch, a few other appetizers, marinating chicken and fish, always a salad, vegetables, an apple pie and more. I'm exhausted just talking about it. On days like this my kitchen is my temple. I love to be in it, but I don't like distractions while I worship."

Favorite snacks on the set? Any cast member with an offbeat eating habit or superstition?

"On set, I think the most important item for me is good coffee. I am easily seduced by fresh and hot Krispy Kreme donuts, and I have to recite a mantra 'I will NOT have a donut today' the whole way to work in my car. It rarely works. I like pretzels when I'm in between scenes. My co-star, Bill Engvall, is crazy for peanut butter M&M's. We have no real superstitions, but we always do a group hug before a taping."

You were born in New York, but grew up in Baltimore and Boston. Which food from each location remains a favorite?

"In Baltimore I was in elementary school. I ate plenty of Campbell's chicken noodle soup. I do remember having Maryland Blue Crab, and that is a taste sensation you never forget. Burger King Whoppers on Friday nights were always exciting. In Boston, I fell in love with New England clam chowder. We ate at a place called Legal Seafood, and we were regulars at Friendly's ice-cream parlor. In New York I was a struggling actress with limited funds, so I ate a lot of pizza and bacon/egg/cheese sandwiches from the local deli."

Turkey and Spaghetti Summer Salad

Here is a salad to put on your list for when it's "too hot" to cook.

- 1 1/2 cups cooked spaghetti, rinsed and drained
- 3/4 cup thinly sliced zucchini
- 1 cup diced cooked turkey breast
- 1 (8-ounce) can cut green beans, rinsed and drained
- 1/2 cup cherry tomatoes, halved
- 1/4 cup sliced ripe olives
- 1/4 cup chopped green onion
- 1/4 cup Kraft Reduced Fat Parmesan Style Grated
- Topping
- 1/2 cup Kraft Fat Free Italian Dressing

In a large bowl, combine spaghetti, zucchini, turkey, green beans, tomatoes, olives and green onion. Add Parmesan cheese. Mix gently to combine. Add Italian dressing. Toss gently to coat. Serves 4.

HINTS: 1) Usually 1 cup broken uncooked spaghetti or 2 1/4 ounces uncooked whole spaghetti cooks to about 1 1/2 cups. 2) If you don't have leftovers, purchase a chunk of cooked turkey breast from your local deli.
